Advitya Bahl

India has introduced four new Labour Codes, with effect from November 21, 2025, replacing 29 central labour laws to create a more modern, coherent, and future-ready framework for the world of work. This major reform was driven by the need to simplify a labour law system that had become fragmented over decades, with multiple standalone laws— some dating back to the pre-independence era— often overlapping, inconsistent, and difficult to enforce uniformly. Different definitions of basic terms such as “worker,” “wages,” and “establishment” across older laws created ambiguity and increased disputes while heavy compliance requirements discouraged many enterprises, particularly MSMEs, from expanding or formalising their workforce.

At the same time, India's labour market has been transformed by rapid economic and technological change, including the growth of services, manufacturing, start-ups, gig and platform work, and interstate mobility. Large segments of the workforce operating in informal or new-age employment models remained outside the coverage of traditional laws designed mainly for factory-based or permanent industrial jobs. Enforcement too varied widely across states, limiting the effectiveness of welfare provisions and creating an uneven regulatory environment.

The intent behind the new Labour Codes is to address these long-standing challenges through consolidation, standardisation, and expansion of protections. By unifying key definitions, enabling digital compliance, and reducing the administrative burden on employers, the Codes aim to improve the ease of doing business and encourage formal job creation. Simultaneously, they seek to broaden worker welfare by ensuring universal minimum wage protection, strengthening workplace safety standards, and extending social security benefits— especially to gig workers, platform workers, and others in the unorganised sector. Overall, the new framework is designed to balance flexibility for enterprises with stronger, more inclusive protections for workers, aligning India's labour laws with the evolving needs of a modern and diverse economy.

The Four Labour Codes: What They Change and Why They Matter

The Code on Wages, 2019 brings together four earlier laws related to minimum wages, payment of wages, bonus, and equal remuneration into a single, uniform framework. Its central purpose is to ensure that every worker in every sector— whether formal or informal— has a statutory right to a minimum wage. By introducing a standard definition of “wages”, the Code reduces ambiguity and ensures consistency across laws governing PF, gratuity, and other benefits. This uniformity will help workers receive clear,

The Expanding Universe of 3D Animation Careers

Mukul Chakraborty

In the ever-evolving landscape of visual communication and digital entertainment, 3D animation has emerged as one of the most dynamic and transformative art forms. It combines creativity, technology, and storytelling to bring lifelike characters, creatures, and environments to the screen. From blockbuster films and immersive video games to architectural visualisations and virtual reality experiences, 3D animation plays a vital role in shaping how modern audiences engage with digital content.

Studying 3D animation academically allows students to explore this fascinating intersection of art and technology in a structured environment. It not only trains them in the technical aspects of animation software and production pipelines, but also nurtures their artistic sensibilities, critical thinking, and storytelling abilities. As industries around the world increasingly rely on digital content creation, skilled 3D animators are in high demand, making this a promising and future-ready career path.

Understanding 3D Animation

At its core, 3D animation is the process of creating moving images in a three-dimensional digital environment. Unlike traditional 2D animation, which focuses on flat drawings, 3D animation involves building digital models that have depth, volume, and spatial presence. These models are rigged with virtual skeletons, animated frame by frame or through motion capture, and rendered into realistic sequences that simulate movement, lighting, and texture.

The process of creating a 3D animated scene typically involves several stages:

- 1. Concept and Story Development – Every animation begins with an idea
- 2. Modelling– Artists create 3D models of characters, environments, and objects using software such as Autodesk Maya, Blender, or ZBrush.
- 3. Rigging and Skinning– Technical artists build digital skeletons (rigs) and bind them to the models, enabling animators to control movement.
- 4. Animation– Animators breathe life or script that defines the narrative. Concept artists visualise characters, settings, and moods that guide the production.

into the models by defining their motion, emotion, and timing, ensuring that the performance aligns with the story.

- 5. Lighting and Rendering– Lighting setups are added to simulate realistic illumination, shadows, and reflections. The scene is then rendered to produce the final output.
- 6. Compositing and Post-Production– The rendered sequences are refined, colour-corrected, and integrated with sound, effects, and other visual layers to create the finished animation.

This complex process requires both artistic and technical expertise, making 3D animation an exciting field for creative minds with a passion for technology.

Academic Training in 3D Animation

Academic programmes in 3D animation are structured to equip students with both artistic vision and technical expertise. The curriculum blends traditional art fundamentals with advanced digital production techniques, covering subjects such as drawing, anatomy, storyboarding, character design, digital sculpting, rigging, acting for animation, and visual storytelling.

A typical one- or multi-year programme includes several core components. Foundations of Art and Design train students in form, perspective, colour theory, and composition. 3D Tools and Techniques introduce industry-standard software such as Maya, Blender, Houdini, Unreal Engine, and Substance Painter. Character and Creature Animation builds skills in body mechanics, gesture, and emotional performance, while Modelling and Texturing focuses on creating detailed assets and realistic surfaces. Students also study Lighting, Rendering, and Compositing to master the cinematic aspects of digital imagery.

Equally important are Storytelling and Acting for Animation, which emphasise emotional expression through movement, and Portfolio Development, where students craft a professional showreel that demonstrates their artistic and technical proficiency—preparing them for careers in animation, gaming, and visual effects.

Learning Outcomes

Students who pursue an academic course in 3D animation graduate not only as software users, but as well-rounded digital storytellers capable of handling creative challenges across multiple industries. Key outcomes of such a programme include:

- Artistic Competence: Students acquire a deep understanding of visual aesthetics—form, colour, movement, and expression. They learn to conceptualise ideas and translate them into visual narratives that connect emotionally with audiences.
 - Technical Proficiency: Graduates become adept in the use of 3D animation software and digital production tools. They can handle modelling, rigging, animation, rendering, and compositing using industry standards.
 - Creative Storytelling Skills: Beyond motion, students learn the importance of timing, emotion, and narrative. They develop the ability to communicate complex ideas through visual performance and design.
 - Analytical and Problem-Solving Skills: Animation production often involves finding creative solutions to visual challenges. Students learn to analyse motion, anatomy, and physics to create believable animation.
 - Team Collaboration and Communication: As animation production involves teamwork between modellers, animators, riggers, lighting artists, and editors, students are trained to work collaboratively in simulated studio environments.
 - Professional Portfolio Development: Every student completes their course with a professional-quality portfolio or showreel, demonstrating their specialisation—whether in character animation, creature design, or environment creation.
- Through these outcomes, academic programmes ensure that graduates are not only job-ready but also capable of adapting to evolving technologies and artistic trends.

Career Opportunities in 3D Animation

The global animation industry has grown rapidly over the past two decades, creating a wide range of exciting career paths for 3D animators. Key roles include:

- 1. 3D Character Animator: Brings digital characters to life through expressive movement for film, television, and games.

- 2. Creature Animator: Focuses on the realistic motion of animals, monsters, and fantasy creatures, especially in VFX-heavy productions.
- 3. 3D Modeller: Creates digital assets such as characters, props, and environments for animation and games.
- 4. Rigging Artist: Builds digital skeletons and control systems that enable animators to manipulate characters.
- 5. Lighting and Rendering Artist: Shapes the mood and realism of scenes through digital lighting and rendering.
- 6. VFX Artist: Produces simulations, explosions, and environmental effects for films, adverts, and digital media.
- 7. Game Animator / Designer: Develops interactive animations for video games using engines such as Unreal and Unity.
- 8. Motion Capture Specialist: Processes and refines performance capture data for use in digital characters.
- 9. AR/VR Content Creator: Designs immersive environments and interactive experiences for augmented and virtual reality.
- 10. Animation Director / Art Director: Leads creative teams and defines the visual style of major productions.

Pursuing Advanced Diploma

If you're excited about building a future in this exciting domain, the Indian Institute of Creative Technologies (IICT) is a great place to start your journey. IICT's two-year diploma programmes are designed for anyone who wants to turn their creative passion into a real, industry-ready career.

UG Diploma in Animation Film Design

It equips creative storytellers with skills in visualisation, animation, and character-driven narrative. The programme covers both traditional and digital pipelines.

Electives Offered:

- Interactive Comics & Sequential Art: Create digital comics, motion stories, and interactive narratives inspired by Indian mythology and culture.
- Character & Creature Animation: Advanced acting, body mechanics, and emotional performance in 3D using Maya and Unreal Engine.
- Character, Creature Design & World Building: Build immersive worlds suited to concept art and environment design.

- 3D Technical Artist (Lighting, FX, Grooming, Unreal): Focus on cinematic lighting, simulations, and real-time rendering.

Career Opportunities: Animation filmmaker, previs artist, character animator, storyboard artist, motion comic creator, transmedia storyteller.

UG Diploma in the Art & Science of Visual Effects

Ideal for students interested in the blend of art, technology, and cinematic illusion. Covers the full VFX pipeline from previs to compositing and virtual production.

Electives Offered:

- Visual Effects Mastery: Compositing, particle simulations, tracking, and matte painting.
- Film Technology & Post-Production: Colour grading, digital intermediate, and post workflows for film and OTT.
- Virtual Production with PGM & Mocap: Unreal Engine-based virtual production with motion capture, LED wall workflows, and previs tools.

Career Opportunities: Compositor, virtual production artist, FX artist, colourist, VFX supervisor, post-production specialist.

UG Diploma in Advanced Video Game Art, Design & Technology

This combines artistic and technical aspects of game creation, including 3D asset development, real-time engines, and gameplay prototyping.

Electives Offered:

- Game Design, Technology & Development: Interactive storytelling, level design, and development in Unreal and Unity.
- Game Art & Asset Creation: Environment modelling, character sculpting, texturing, and optimisation for real-time workflows.

Career Opportunities: Game designer, 3D game artist, environment artist, technical designer, Unreal Engine specialist.

IICT's State-of-the-Art Infrastructure

The IICT offers one of the most advanced creative technology campuses in the country, giving students access to facilities that match real studio environments. From virtual production stages and motion-capture setups to high-end post-production suites, sound studios, scanning labs, and gaming zones, everything is built to mirror professional workflows. This state-of-the-art infrastructure doesn't just enhance learning—it gives students a real competitive edge by letting them train with the same tools and technology used in top animation, VFX, film, and gaming studios.

What makes the Indian Institute of Creative Technologies (IICT) truly stand out is its unique blend of art, technology, and culture. Students don't just learn tools—they learn to reimagine Indian storytelling through animation, VFX, and gaming while working on real projects from day one. With an interdisciplinary learning environment and constant industry interaction, IICT helps students build strong portfolios and gain the practical confidence needed to thrive. For anyone passionate about combining creativity with cutting-edge tech, IICT offers a future-ready pathway into the world of 3D animation and beyond. For more details log in to www.iiict.org.

predictable entitlements, while also enabling employers to plan compensation structures with greater clarity. The Code also empowers the government to set a national floor wage, which will guide states in fixing their respective minimum wages, thereby promoting fairness and reducing disparities.

The Industrial Relations Code, 2020 seeks to create a balanced environment for both workers and employers by modernising laws related to trade unions, dispute resolution, layoffs, retrenchment, and closure. One of its most significant changes is raising the threshold for prior government approval for retrenchment or closure from 100 to 300 workers in establishments covered by the Code, giving enterprises more flexibility while preserving workers' statutory compensation rights. The Code also streamlines the recognition of trade unions, introduces clearer rules on strikes, and formally recognises fixed-term employment, granting fixed-term workers benefits like gratuity after one year of service. These measures aim to encourage orderly industrial relations, reduce litigation, and support smoother business operations.

The Code on Social Security, 2020 consolidates nine major social-security laws covering EPF, ESIC, maternity benefits, gratuity, employee compensation, and welfare for construction and unorganised workers. Its most transformative feature is the inclusion of gig workers and platform workers, who are now recognised in law for the first time and may receive access to social-security schemes through dedicated funds supported by contributions from aggregators. The Code seeks to expand the social-protection net to cover workers across all forms of employment, ensuring continuity of benefits even as the labour market becomes more flexible. By unifying multiple schemes and enabling digital registration and portability, the Code aims to make social security more inclusive, accessible, and future-ready.

The Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions (OSHC) Code, 2020 merges 13 laws governing workplace safety, working hours, welfare facilities, and health standards across industries such as factories, mines, construction, transport, and plantations. Its overarching goal is to provide consistent and modern safety norms that protect workers across diverse sectors. The Code standardises provisions on maximum working hours, overtime limits, rest intervals, and welfare amenities such as washrooms, canteens, crèches, and first-aid facilities. It also introduces clearer rules for night work, allowing women to work night shifts in all sectors subject to adequate safety measures. By strengthening health check-ups, improving inspection mechanisms, and bringing uniformity across states, the OSHWC Code aims to ensure safer, healthier, and more dignified working conditions for India's workforce.

Impact on Employment Trends

The new Labour Codes are increasingly being viewed through the lens of their potential to reduce unemployment and generate new jobs. SBI Research's Ecwrap

SBI ECOWRAP REPORT HIGHLIGHTS

| Indicator | SBI estimate / highlight |
|------------------------------------|---|
| Reduction in unemployment rate | 1.3 percentage points (medium-term) |
| Additional jobs | 77 lakh (7.7 million) jobs |
| Increase in formalisation rate | +15.1 percentage points (=60.4% to =75.5% formal) |
| Workers moving to formal sector | =10 crore workers (if 20% of unorganised shift) |
| Rise in disposable income per day | About ₹95 per worker |
| Extra daily consumption per worker | About ₹66 per worker |
| Total consumption boost | ≈₹75,000 crore additional consumption | argues that these Codes— by simplifying labour law architecture, standardising wages, expanding social security, and easing compliance— can meaningfully shrink India's unemployment rate. Their modelling suggests that unemployment could fall by nearly 1.3 percentage points over the medium term, equivalent to about 7.7 million additional jobs, provided implementation across states progresses smoothly. In this framework, job creation is not merely a by-product of reform but a central outcome of a more predictable, formal, and consumption-driven labour market.

The Codes' strongest impact on reducing unemployment is expected to come from accelerated formalisation. SBI projects that formalisation may rise from around 60% to over 75%, largely because the Codes make minimum wages universal, mandate appointment letters, unify wage definitions, and expand EPFO/ ESIC coverage. If even 20% of current informal workers shift to formal roles, nearly 10 crore workers could enter the social-security net for the first time. This transition is crucial for reducing frictional and disguised unemployment, as formal jobs offer clearer terms of hiring and exit, less volatility in income, and stronger job continuity. Higher formal-sector wages and statutory social-security contributions are also expected to raise disposable incomes— SBI estimates an average daily increase of ₹95 per worker, of which ₹66 may convert into consumption. The combined consumption impulse of approximately ₹75,000 crore could drive output growth, setting off a secondary wave of job creation across manufacturing, retail, construction, BFSI, logistics, and IT-enabled services.

Sector-wise, job creation prospects vary but are broadly positive. Manufacturing stands to see the earliest gains, as simplified layoff and closure rules (with approval thresholds raised to 300 workers) can encourage mid-sized plants to expand capacity and hire directly, rather than relying on contract labour. This expansion is particularly relevant for labour-intensive industries— textiles, apparel, footwear, electronics, and auto-components— which have high job-multiplier effects. In the IT and IT-enabled services sector, the Codes create a clearer framework for working hours, night shifts, and fixed-term employment, making compliance easier and potentially encouraging firms to expand teams, especially in cybersecurity, cloud services, and AI support roles.

The gig and platform economy may see some of the most significant structural job generation: legal recognition of gig workers, combined with aggregator contributions to social-security funds, could stabilise incomes and reduce the extremely high churn that currently suppresses productivity. Delivery, ride-hailing, and home-services platforms are expected to hire more consistently once workforce retention improves. BFSI is likely to experience job growth indirectly— higher formalisation and rising incomes increase demand for banking, credit, insurance, pensions, and investment products, prompting banks and NBFCs to expand hiring. Logistics and e-commerce fulfilment, both heavily informal today, could also generate substantial employment as uniform safety norms and mandatory appointment letters reduce attrition and allow firms to scale operations more confidently.

The unemployment-reduction impact will not be uniform across states. Manufacturing-heavy states like Tamil Nadu, Gujarat, Maharashtra, and Karnataka are poised to see the fastest job growth, as they already possess regulatory ecosystems that can absorb the Codes with minimal friction. Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh, which have aggressively reformed state labour rules in recent years, may see substantial formal job creation in textiles, construction, and warehousing. Rajasthan and Haryana could experience improvements in both manufacturing and logistics employment due to their large industrial corridors. States with gig-heavy economies— Delhi NCR, Karnataka, Telangana, and Maharashtra— may lead to job creation in platform-based services once gig workers are formally integrated into social-security frameworks. Kerala and West Bengal may face a slower transition due to entrenched informal-sector dynamics but stand to gain significantly in social-security coverage, which can gradually translate into more stable employment. Meanwhile, states in the Northeast, dominated by micro-enterprises and services, will require targeted capacity-building but could still benefit from clearer compliance norms that make it easier for small firms to hire formally.

To sum up, the new Labour Codes have the potential to reshape India's employment landscape primarily by reducing unemployment and generating sustainable, higher-quality jobs. Their impact is expected to build in waves— first through formalisation and compliance simplification, then through rising consumption and firm expansion, and finally through sector-specific and state-specific growth patterns. If the Codes are implemented consistently across the country and firms respond by scaling operations, India could witness one of the most significant employment expansions in its modern economic history— anchored not just in job creation, but in long-term labour-market stability.

Dated the 18th November, 2025

Circular

Engagement of (02) Sr. Consultants and (02) Jr. Consultant in the Underwater Archaeology Wing (UAW), Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) on contract basis.

The Archaeological Survey of India (ASI), an attached office of the Ministry of Culture, Govt. of India, is the apex organization responsible for archaeological research, exploration, excavation, conservation, and protection of India's cultural heritage. With the revival of the UAW, ASI has initiated multiple projects to explore and document India's underwater cultural heritage, including ancient ports, submerged remains, coastal, and revering archaeological sites.

Objectives

To strengthen the operational and research capacity of UAW, ASI intends to engage four (04) individual professionals as Senior and Junior Consultants on contractual basis. These professionals will provide specialized support for planning, execution, documentation, research, and dissemination of underwater archaeology projects across India. These experts will assist UAW, ASI, in works pertaining to underwater archaeology for a period of one (01) year initially. After satisfactory performance of Consultants in the first year of their engagement, their term will be extended for another one (01) year, under the same terms and conditions.

The details regarding the engagement of Consultants are as under:

1. Scope of work

To assist and give technical inputs to UAW, ASI -

- 1.1 Conduct detailed archival research related to the underwater archaeological sites;
- 1.2 Preparation of technical reports on the submerged archaeological remains across India;
- 1.3 Assist in preparation of technical reports/ documents on the underwater archaeological fieldworks, editing publications, and project coordination;
- 1.4 Prepare digital repository of artifacts recovered from past as well as upcoming underwater archaeological fieldworks;
- 1.5 Assist in organizing training programs in underwater archaeology;
- 1.6 Support dissemination of research outputs through conferences, seminars, exhibitions, and digital platforms;
- 1.7 Maintain databases, project records, and assist in administrative tasks;
- 1.8 Any other work in the field of underwater archaeology that may be assigned from time to time

2. Eligibility Criteria

3. Duration of Consultancy

Initially one (01) year, extendable to one (01) more year based on the satisfactory performance and project requirements (under the same terms and conditions with fixed annual remuneration).

4. Remuneration

4.1 The remuneration of the Senior Consultant is Rs.70,000/- per month (consolidated) and Junior Consultant is Rs. 50,000/- per month (consolidated). The consultancy fee shall be a lump sum amount, and no other allowances such as DA, HRA, Transport Allowance (except travel entitlement by 3rd AC rail ticket when deputed on official tour), etc. shall be payable. The appointment will be purely on a temporary contract basis.

4.2 The Consultant will be entitled to travel by 3rd AC (rail ticket) when deputed on official tour. No other allowance shall be admissible apart from it.

4.3 The Consultant will be entitled for eight (08) days leave during their engagement period of one year, as applicable for contract posts.

4.4 No medical allowances will be paid during the contract.

4.5 The working days will be same as that of a regular ASI employee. The Consultants shall be based in the office of UAW, Greater Noida and ASI Headquarters, New Delhi.

4.6 In the course of providing the services, the consultant/ contractual professional shall act in a professional manner exercising all due diligence care, skill and judgment and provide the services promptly, carefully, in accordance with the milestones and as per the standard required by the Archaeological Survey of India. Consultants may observe and comply with all applicable procedures as laid by the Archaeological Survey of India.

4.7 During this period, the Consultants will be expected not to undertake any other contract (Part-time or Full-time) related to any project/ work in India or any other country.

4.8 The Consultants agree to maintain confidentiality of the work and its outcome as demanded by the Archaeological Survey of India.

4.9 The services of the Consultants can be terminated at any time by giving a notice of one month on either side, i.e., by the Consultant or the appointing authority. The appointing authority may pay the Consultant his/ her pay and allowance for the period of one month or for the period by which notice period falls short of one month and terminate his/ her services immediately.

Annexure-II

Points to be noted by the Borrowing/Parent Department/Office to be highlighted in DOP&T circular for compliance by the Ministries/ Departments

- Vigilance Clearance will not normally be granted for a period of 3 years after the currency of punishment, if a minor penalty has been imposed on an officer. In case of imposition of a major penalty, Vigilance Clearance will not normally be granted for a period of 5 years after the currency of punishment in terms of DOP&T O.M. No. 11012/11/2007- Estt.(A) dated 14.12.2007.
- While forwarding applications in respect of officers who are about to complete their 'cooling-off period' shortly the instructions of DOP&T as contained in O.M. No. 2/1/2012- Estt.(Pay.II) dated 04.01.2013 may be strictly adhered to.
- A copy of the Application format may be provided by the Borrowing Department in their website in a downloadable form as Work Document along with the advertisement.
- In the case of a vacancy already existing at the time of issue of communication inviting nominations/publication in the Employment News, the eligibility may be determined with reference to the last date prescribed for receipt of nominations in the concerned administrative Ministry/Department. In the case of an anticipated vacancy, the crucial date for determining eligibility should be the date on which the vacancy is expected to arise.
- It shall be prominently mentioned in the vacancy circular/advertisement that the applications/CV not accompanied by supporting certificates/documents in support of Qualification and Experience claimed by the candidates would not be processed for determining the eligibility of the candidates for the selection.
- Crucial date for determining the eligibility of the applicants will be counted after excluding the first date of publication of the vacancy/post in the Employment News, ie., For the vacancy published in the Employment News of 18-24 Jan 2014, the crucial date will be counted from the 19th Jan 2014 (excluding the first date of publication).
- To facilitate determination of eligibility of the applicants working in Public Sector Undertaking/Autonomous Organizations not following the Central Government Scales, their equivalent scales of pay/posts may be confirmed by the Borrowing Department. Where necessary, details in this regard may also be ascertained from the Lending Department.

■ New Labour Codes Signal Surge in Jobs, Social Security, Economic Growth

India has rolled out four new labour codes — on Wages, Industrial Relations, Social Security, and Occupational Safety & Working Conditions — replacing 29 older laws to modernise workplace regulations and ease compliance. According to a recent report by State Bank of India (SBI), these reforms could generate around 77 lakh new jobs, boost formal employment by 15%, and expand social security coverage to 80–85% of workers in the next 2–3 years. Key changes under the new regime include a statutory minimum wage for all workers, formal job contracts, and social security for gig and platform workers, mandatory annual health check-ups for employees over 40, and standardised working hours and safety norms. Supporters say the overhaul — considered the biggest labour reform since independence — will boost job security, income stability and economic growth. Critics, including some trade unions, have raised concerns over potential job-losses and undue advantages to employers under relaxed dismissal norms.

■ Finance Ministry's Review for October Highlight Economic Resilience

The Ministry of Finance released its Economic Review for October on November 27, 2025, highlighting a stable and resilient domestic economy supported by easing inflation, strong consumer demand and early gains from recent policy measures. Retail inflation dropped to a series low of 0.25 percent, helped by GST rate cuts and broad-based moderation in food prices. Festive-season spending boosted consumption indicators, with petrol usage hitting a five-month high and automobile retail sales rising 40.5 percent year-on-year. The review reported that services exports reached a record US $38.5 billion in October, with the services surplus offsetting nearly half the merchandise trade deficit. Rural sentiment also improved, as tractor sales surged to an eleven-year high following favourable monsoon conditions and GST reforms. Industry indicators remained strong, with the Manufacturing PMI rising to 59.2 and the Services PMI holding at 58.9, signalling sustained expansion across key sectors.

■ UN Adopts Twin Resolutions to Strengthen Global Peacebuilding Effort

The United Nations' Security Council and General Assembly have adopted two different but similar resolutions to reinforce the organisation's peacebuilding architecture, signalling a renewed international commitment to preventing conflict and fostering sustainable peace at a time of rising global instability. The resolutions emphasise that peacebuilding is not just a post-conflict exercise but a long-term investment in stability, development, and human rights. They underline that national governments bear primary responsibility for shaping and sustaining peace, including tackling the underlying drivers of violence such as inequality, governance gaps and social exclusion. Key directions include a more predictable annual programme of work for the Peacebuilding Commission (PBC), stronger alignment with major UN bodies, and enhanced support for countries through capacity-building, resource mobilisation and the sharing of proven approaches. Negotiated over nearly a year by Slovenia and Egypt and adopted by consensus, the resolutions are seen as an important success for multilateral cooperation despite geopolitical divides. As the fourth major review since the peacebuilding framework was established in 2005.
